Tragedy in Eubank

Couple dies in house fire; officials charge granddaughter with murder, arson

EUBANK — The granddaughter of an elderly couple who died in a house fire the night of Nov. 20 is being held in an Adair County juvenile facility on charges she set the fire that killed her grandparents.

Rusty Garland, 64, and Linda Garland, 60, were pronounced dead Thursday, Nov. 21, after being found inside their burned-out house in the Eubank community, according to state police.

State police spokesman Trooper Robert Purdy said a juvenile has been charged with two counts of murder and one count of first-degree arson in the case.

The juvenile was inside the home and set the fire while the Garlands were in their bedroom, Purdy said. The juvenile escaped the fire unharmed.

Family members and Lincoln County Coroner Farris Marcum have confirmed the juvenile is the 16-year-old granddaughter of the Garlands.

Rusty Garland, the son of Linda and Everett Garland, said the granddaughter is his niece. Linda and Everett Garland had custody of their granddaughter, he said.

The fire at the modular home on Joe McMullin Road began shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday, according to authorities.

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office and "a bunch of" Lincoln County fire department stations responded to the scene, along with state police, Marcum said.

Once the fire was extinguished, Everett Garland's body was found near a back

At top, a state fire marshal, left, is silhouetted between windows as he investigates inside the burned-out home on Joe McMullin Road where Everett and Linda Garland were the night of Nov. 20 when the fire that killed them started. The Garlands' 16-year-old granddaughter has been charged in their deaths. Above, Linda and Everett Garland are seen in photo provided by Morris and Hislope Funeral Home for their obituary. ## Garlands remembered by community for being 'good, country people'

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

EUBANK — Whether you ask diners at the local restaurant or staff at Eubank Baptist Church, everyone in the small city of Eubank on the Lincoln-Pulaski county line seems to have the same impression of Linda and Everett Garland.

"If you're not from the area, you might not understand. But they were just good, country people," Frances McKinney said. "They just enjoyed being part of Eubank, Kentucky, and raising their family and working and making a living and always having their needs met — but not somebody that lived in a $200,000 house."

McKinney, who attends Eubank Baptist where the Garlands had been faithful members since 2004, had seen Linda Garland and her granddaughter on Tuesday, Nov. 19 — just a day before Linda and Everett perished in a house fire that investigators say was set by their granddaughter.

New Crab Orchard police chief on patrol

Police Chief Jimmy Gipson cruises the streets of Crab Orchard in his patrol car Sunday evening.

CRAB ORCHARD — After more than three and a half years without a city police force, Crab Orchard is once again employing an officer to patrol its streets.

Crab Orchard Police Chief Jimmy Gipson began working for the small town of about 800 people in October. The city commission recreated the police department and began taking applications for police chief in late August.

Gipson, who has 30 years of law-enforcement experience and previously served as Junction City's police chief, said he's still getting to know the streets and people in Crab Orchard.

"It's a learning process — learning the people and getting familiar with them," he said.

Gipson fills a gap in police coverage that Constable Jesse Harris, who regularly patrols the city, couldn't fill on his own, said Donna Harris, the city commissioner in charge of police issues.

"We're hoping that it will cut crime down," Donna Harris said. "People ... feel more protected to know that they have two police officers."

Higgins indicted for June rape

STANFORD — A Stanford man has been indicted on charges he burglarized a home and raped an elderly woman shortly after being released from jail because authorities failed to indict him for other charges.

A Lincoln County grand jury ruled Friday that there is enough evidence to indict Kevin Montez Higgins, 28, of 2047 Boneyville Road, on one count of first-degree burglary, one count of first-degree rape and two counts of being a persistent felony offender.

Higgins allegedly broke into the Star Avenue home of a 92-year-old woman on June 15 "with the intent to commit a crime," according to the indictment. While illegally inside the home, Higgins engaged in sexual intercourse with the woman "through the use of forcible compulsion," the indictment alleges.

STANFORD — A Crab Orchard man accused of kidnapping and beating his ex-girlfriend has been indicted by a Lincoln County grand jury.

Jesse James Abee, 25, of 80 Brock Road, faces one count of first-degree burglary and one count of kidnapping.

Abee allegedly unlawfully entered the home of Dustin New with the intent to commit a crime and injured Juanita Snow in the process, according to the indictment. He also restrained Snow "with the intent to accomplish or advance the commission of a felony and or to inflict bodily injury and to terrorize," the indictment reads.

Snow testified against Abee for the grand jury.

Snow has alleged Abee came into a house where she was sleeping and dragged her out by her hair. Abee physically assaulted her, drove her to a remote field, dug a grave

'We know much more'

Kennedy assassination was a game-changer for journalism

The commemoration on Nov. 22 of the 50th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was also a reminder — a stark and somber one, to be sure — of journalism as some call it: "the first draft of history."

From the time that three shots were fired in Dallas at the presidential motorcade on Nov. 22, 1963, that "first draft" of reporting about the tragedy reached Americans in a manner unique in history.

Never before had an entire nation received and shared so much information at the same instant, so quickly and so widely. Of course, missteps, misinformation and rumor, combined with the speed of those events, all but guaranteed that a companion "conspiracy press" would grow up almost as quickly as events were reported.

From the official Warren Report — itself the subject of much second-guessing — and from news reports then and now, here's a consensus timeline of those initial hours and days in which the nation learned by news bulletin, extra-edition newspaper headlines and through unprecedented, non-stop TV network coverage, about what had happened in Dallas:

- Kennedy is shot at about 12:30 p.m. CT. Within seconds, the presidential car speeds away from the rest of the motorcade, reaching 80 miles per hour at some spots in the four-mile trip to Parkland Memorial Hospital, arriving about 12:35 p.m.

- The first news service bulletin, from United Press International, reached the nation's newsrooms at 12:34 p.m. as shown on a paper copy of the bulletin shown online. Dictated by correspondent Merriman Smith, who was first to grab the press car's radio-telephone, the bulletin says that three shots have been fired at the presidential motorcade. The ABC Radio Network reports the shooting at 12:36 p.m.

- Lee Harvey Oswald is out of the Texas Book Depository in less than three minutes after the shooting, the report says. Just a little more than 40 minutes later, at about 1:15 p.m., after walking several city blocks, riding a city bus and changing clothes, Oswald is stopped by Dallas police office J.D. Tippit. Oswald shoots Tippit with a handgun. Within 35 minutes of the killing of Patrolman Tippit, Oswald is arrested by Dallas police, who find him hiding in a movie theater. At 11:26 p.m., Oswald is also charged with shooting Kennedy.

- On Air Force One, at 2:38 p.m., Lyndon Johnson takes the oath of office as the 36th President. Just nine minutes later the flight to Washington, D.C., lifts off. At 5:58 p.m., Air Force One lands at Andrews Air Force Base, just outside the district.

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Gene
Policinski
Guest columnist

Kennedy had begun his trip to Texas from Andrews only 31 hours earlier.

- Two days later, Oswald is fatally shot at 11:41 a.m. Sunday, in the basement of the Dallas Police Department building by Jack Ruby, a Dallas nightclub owner. This shooting takes place in full view of a national television audience and a host of news photographers.

In following days, the nation was provided non-stop coverage by the then-three TV networks, NBC, CBS and ABC, of the funeral preparations, and the funeral itself, right through the procession to Arlington Cemetery and the lighting of an "eternal flame" over Kennedy's grave.

In this pre-cell phone, pre-internet, still early-days of TV, reporters on the scene scrambled to find pay phones to call in stories or news tips. Networks sometimes had to show anchors literally repeating on-air what they heard over a telephone handset held to one ear. Wire services communicated with each other and newsrooms over achingly-slow teletype machines. No instant messages, no e-mail and yet the first rudimentary steps were taken toward what eventually would become the "24/7" news cycle.

One indisputable fact from all of that reporting remains true a half-century later: There is no credible report of government censorship at that moment, or of an estimated 22,000 books since written about JFK, or of the seemingly inexhaustible supply of published theories on "what really happened," such as Oliver Stone's 1991 film "JFK" about attempts by New Orleans prosecutor Jim Garrison to find a conspiracy behind Kennedy's death.

It's fashionable to remark "we may never know" the ultimate answers to questions about reports of various conspiracies around Kennedy's death, or be able to completely put to rest rumors of shots fired from the famed "grassy knoll," or even know with certainty what Jack Ruby's "real" motives were in shooting Oswald.

But outside of the most-rabid conspiracy circles, it's fair to say "we know much more" thanks to a half-century of news and information brought to us unfettered by government censorship.

President Lincoln set permanent Thanksgiving date during Civil War

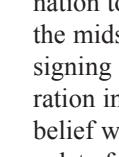

This week people across our country will gather to celebrate Thanksgiving.

While the modern day tradition of Thanksgiving is usually marked by football, Black Friday, and leftovers, the history of this holiday is steeped in the fabric of our nation during both good and bad times.

The history of Thanksgiving in America, while not exact on the specifics, traces back to the 1600's when Puritans and Pilgrims decided to carry on the tradition of Days of Fasting and Days of Thanksgiving they had celebrated in England. The first such Thanksgiving celebration took place in 1621 in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

For many years following that first Thanksgiving, the date of celebration varied from state to state. But it was President Abraham Lincoln who first sought to set a permanent date for the nation to give thanks during the midst of the Civil War, signing a presidential declaration in 1863. Lincoln's belief was that establishing a date for Thanksgiving would bring a sense of unity to the North and South, although all the states would not celebrate the holiday together until the 1870's. The date that President Lincoln set fourth is still celebrated in this great nation on the last Thursday in November.

David
Meade
State Representative

It's no secret that today our country has several issues and problems that need to be worked out, and that causes many of us, including myself, to complain about the way our government is operating.

However, in spite of those issues I believe we still live in the greatest country in the world. Our nation has faced many problems in the past that we have conquered. We will do the same with the issues we face today because we are Americans and that's what we do, we overcome.

Sometimes it's easy to let the good things become overshadowed by the problems we face in our lives, but we have so much to be thankful for. This Thanksgiving take a moment to stop and think about those things in your life that you are thankful for, such as, the freedoms and rights that we are given each day, the men and women who fought to give us those freedoms, our family and loved ones that are so precious, and the God that gave it all to us.

Whether it's to celebrate freedom, liberation, or love, Thanksgiving is a time to simply give thanks for those who mean the most to us. I wish you and yours a wonderful & Happy Thanksgiving.

An encouraging word More than entertaining and feasting

By Howard Coop

After crossing the Atlantic Ocean through stormy weather at the worst possible time of the year, the MAYFLOWER landed at Provincetown Harbor on Cape Cod on November 11, 1620. That was almost five hundred miles north of its intended destination in Virginia.

Then, on December 21, 1620, the Pilgrims, one hundred one in number, went from the MAYFLOWER by way of a small craft to a granite boulder, known as Plymouth Rock, to begin a new life in a new world.

The first winter at Plymouth was extremely difficult for the Pilgrims. They were in a different climate, and the weather was bad. Ships did not arrive as scheduled with supplies. So, food was exceedingly scarce, and tradition says their ration was five grains of parched corn a day. By the time winter was over, almost half of the Pilgrims had died; only fifty-four survived.

At the end of the first harvest, William Bradford, Governor of the Plymouth Colony, called for the Pilgrims to observe a day of thanksgiving. Responding to that proclamation.

mation, the Pilgrims and friendly Indians "entertained and feasted" for three days.

But it was more than entertaining and feasting. Based upon a old Judeo-Christian tradition that was dear to the Pilgrims and one that was over three thousand years old, harvest was a time to remember, even in difficult times, that many blessings have been received, the source of those blessings is recognized, and a grateful heart gives thanks for those blessings. That tradition was passed onto future generations of American citizens, and thanksgiving became a national holiday that is celebrated annually with families gathering to entertain and feast.

As Thanksgiving is celebrated this year, times are less than good. On the international scene, terrorists are active and strike with devastating results, and the entire Middle East is in turmoil. On the national scene, an unstable economy is a major concern, and many struggle to find work. Yet, in difficult times, there are many things that make life good. On this special day, we can remember those things, recognize their source, and be thankful for them.

Edith Marie Trowbridge, 82

Edith Marie Trowbridge, 82, of South Shady Lane, Eubank, passed away Thursday, Nov. 21, at Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital in Somerset.

Born Thursday, Dec. 18, 1930, in Casey County, Edith was a daughter of the late Levi and Ada Taylor Gastineau. She was a homemaker and worked as a farmer, where she enjoyed cutting hay on her John Deere tractor. Edith was the widow of Vernon Eugene "Gene" Trowbridge, who preceded her in death on April 2, 1996.

She was also preceded in death by one brother, Willard Gastineau.

Survivors include one son, Larry (Betty) Trowbridge of Somerset; two daughters, Sherry Spigle and Bridgett (Doug)

Cress both of Eubank; two brothers, Lloyd (Debbie) Gastineau of Stanford and Lindell (Linda) Gastineau of Eubank; one sister, June Dickhaus of Waynesburg; seven grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; and one great-grandson, Jacob, due in December.

Funeral services were Nov. 25, at Barnett & Demrow Funeral Home in Waynesburg with Bro. Isaiah Super officiating. Burial was in Double Springs Cemetery.

News from Fairview Baptist Church

By Shelby Lakes

On Sunday, Bro. Johnny Baker's message was about changing Christians' attitudes, and was taken from Psalm 23. The first issue is complaining, we need to be thankful instead, he said.

Hardly anyone is satisfied, always wanting more toys, money, etc. God wants us to be thankful and content; the Apostle Paul said he had learned to be content in any situation.

In the 23rd Psalm, David says the Lord is his shepherd. Jesus refers to his people several times as sheep

Notes from Sara

By Sara Givens

Why do we worry so much about what others think? People are here and gone in the blink of an eye and so are the standards by which we measure ourselves against each other. Don't set your standards unrealistically high, but leave room to just be yourself and keep your eyes on the one who is here forever.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Brenda Boatley Thornton has been released from the Markey Cancer Center and is doing great. Prayer can change things.

Mrs. Jannette Napier fell and broke her wrist. She is in a lot of pain, but thankful that the wrist was the only thing broken.

Good news: Mr. Chase Miller, son of Ms. Danetta Miller is a senior at the U.K. College of Fine Arts School of Music. Chase plays the clarinet and was in a presentation where he performed in a Senior Clarinet Recital. He is also a graduate of Lincoln County High School. The community of Boneyville and Lincoln County are so proud of you Chase!

Fort Logan Cooperative Ministries says thank you

This is the time of year to give thanks, and there is so much to be thankful for at Fort Logan Cooperative Ministries. Our shelves have been replenished to overflowing by several food drives in the county.

Golden Living Nursing Home held a competition among its staff and gathered an amazing amount of food that took a pick-up truck and van to transport to our building. There is something to be said in favor of competition, as Lincoln Manufacturing is using UK tickets to bring in the donations by their employees. They delivered a load this week, and plan to deliver another before Christmas.

Next, the Lion's Club brought a load of groceries and coats to our ministry. We all know the good that is done by the Lion's Club, but we sure want to give them a big thank you for these donations and to bless the members who worked so diligently to gather and deliver these gifts.

We also want to thank the Retired Teachers of Lincoln County for their food gifts. However, it isn't just about big donations. There are smaller donations made by individuals on a monthly basis that allow us to help those who are in need of food.

So, I wish to make sure that my gratitude is evident in this letter. I also hope you will pray for our ministry, as well as the people we help. There are so many who need your prayers.

I end this note by praying that all of you experience a wonderful Thanksgiving.

God bless you,
Kay Peppard

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE*More about Eve - The first Woman. Adam's wife.

God formed her from Adam's rib.

The name EVE was given to Adam's wife after the act of disobedience of the couple. That act was eating of the fruit of the TREE OF KNOWLEDGE OF GOOD AND EVIL after God instructed them not to eat of that fruit. This is often referred to as the FALL OF MAN.

The name EVE implies both her being the mother of all living and she being the mother of the promised seed who should give life to the human race now subjected to death through their disobedience.

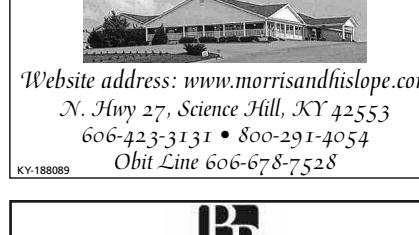

While the bible traces the fall of the race to the sin of Adam, the part which EVE played in this tragedy is vividly portrayed in Genesis, chapter 3.

Deceived by Satan, EVE ate of the fruit. Enamored by his wife, Adam chose to leave God for the one
God had given him.

News from Highland United Methodist Church

Services at the Highland United Methodist Church on Sunday, Nov. 24, consisted of songs of Thanksgiving praise and persons expressing words of thanks for various blessings in their lives. Those being remembered with extra special prayers were the following: Janice Smith (knee replacement - home Sunday), Frankie Young's step-father, Bill Baumstark (worsening health), Glen Gough (stroke - now home - Scot Cheetham's step-dad), and Frankie Young's son, Travis and all of his family (all sick).

Jo Ann Elliott had a praise that her health situation was a damaged nerve condition due to repeated surgeries in lieu of cancer.

There was a large collection of food items to be taken to the food pantry this week. I believe it's the most we've ever had.

Next Sunday after church, choir practice, a baby shower for Chaz and Rebecca Garcia and lunch, those that wish to participate will be caroling at the Golden Living facility.

Thanks were given to Doug May for rewiring and fixing a much needed light in the children's room.

We were glad to have Arlene Bennett, granddaughter and friend to worship with us. Arlene hasn't been able to be present on Sundays for some time. She has been able to be at mid-week choir practice, however.

Sunday's message came from Luke 15:11-24. This is scripture about the prodigal son.

Join us at the little white United Methodist Church in Highland at 10 and 11 a.m. each Sunday.

News from the Stanford Nazarene Church

By Buford Edwards II

Sunday morning, Stanford Church of the Nazarene was blessed by the wonderful worship service as we raised our voices to praise the Lord and learn from His Word during Sunday school and morning worship service on the beautiful Lord's Day! We were challenged from Luke 10, with the question, "who's sheep are you?"

Sunday night we gathered again for Open Mic Night, fellowship and worship. Bro. Buford's message was from

From now until our Christmas play on Sunday, Dec. 22, we will be having Christmas play practice each and every Wednesday. We need several volunteers for every aspect of the play. If you would like to be involved please let Sister Michelle Edwards know!

The Jail Ministry meets every Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and the Nursing Home Ministry the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information, or to learn how to get involved, contact the church and leave a message.

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Dec. 3, but this meeting will be at the Kentucky Depot!

and says he is the Good Shepherd. On the Mount of Olives, Jesus looks on the people as sheep without a savior, Bro. Johnny said. Like sheep, they get lost, are helpless when left alone, don't know how to take care of themselves, and are easily scared and timid.

"Is the Lord truly your shepherd?" Bro. Johnny asked. The Lord gives and takes away, but provides for us. We have so much as Americans; we should be thankful.

In the chapter in Psalms, David says the Lord makes him lay down by still waters. To lie down, a sheep must be unafraid, content, but Americans take less time off work than any people group, Bro. Johnny said.

God calms us and places us where we need to be, if we let him, Bro. Johnny said.

The Good Shepherd leads his sheep through a path that is narrow, hard, and with dangerous obstacles, but the hard path leads to righteousness. Satan's path is smooth and broad, but leads to destruction, Bro. Johnny said.

When the Good Shepherd leads us, we have nothing to fear in death. Knowing Christ is what matters in the event of death, Bro. Johnny said. If your spouse doesn't know Jesus, your mission should be helping them find Him. Don't let anything draw you away from them making a decision for Christ (end of sermon summary).

Celebrating recent birthdays are Joe Everett, Leola Caudill, Laura Gover, Leah Sparkman, Wayne Greer, Darlene Smith, Vicki Rice, Mike Singleton, Scottie Cook, Woods Gover, Crystal Thornton, Yolanda Smith, Tony Cornelius, Butch Jenkins, Dorothy Walters and Dottie Jenkins. ## Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Scena Ann Petrey

Sunday, Nov. 24 we had joint worship services with the Hispanic congregation. The congregational singing was in both Spanish and English. Jessica Page, Kallie Bailey, Josh Jacobs, Charlotte Abel, and Bro. Jamie sang a special: "I realize just how beautiful You are and how great Your affections are for me. Oh, how He loves us!" Beautiful words in a beautiful song.

Bro. Kyle began his message from 1 Peter 4:12 by saying that we breathe 23,000 breaths a day. How thankful we should be for all He has done for us. He continued by saying that we should give thanks in all kinds of circumstances. Give thanks when it is easy to do so, but also when it is not so easy! "Count it all joy," so says the scriptures.

Bro. Kyle said we have two reasons to be thankful. The first is for the purpose of trials. All of us will have troubles – trials are ordinary to the Christian life (Phil. 1:20). Trials are to discipline us (make us stronger), not to punish us. C. S. Lewis, a Christian author, said, "God whispers to us in our pleasures and shouts to us in our pain." A Christian getting through trials shows the world who God is. The world should be able to see our trust in Christ during this time.

The second reason is the purpose of results of trials. James 1:2-4 says that God's goal in our lives is steadfastness. Jesus is our anchor; He is the one who will see us through everything and helps make sense out of life. Trials are hard but without Jesus they are horrible and long. "Trials don't last forever, but eternity lasts forever," concluded Bro. Kyle.

The Sunday evening service centered around the dedication of the Christmas shoeboxes. After the boxes were placed on the altar, the congregation encircled the boxes and prayed for the children who would receive them and for safe travel to their destinations. The entire service was a time of thanksgiving and privilege that God has granted to our church and community, not only for the shoeboxes, but also for the many blessings He bestows on us every day.

The Senior Christmas dinner will be Thursday, Dec. 12 at the Stanford Depot. The cost is $16 per person which includes the drink, dessert, and tip. Sign up sheets are available. Contact Jerry Hampton for additional information.

There will be no Wednesday night activities on Nov. 27.

Contact Annette Story or Tawanna Yelton if you have a family member in the military or in college. They need these names as soon as possible.

A $65 fee for those who have signed up for the Winter Xtreme Conference in Gatlinburg on Dec. 29-31 is due as soon as possible. A parental informational meeting will be on Dec. 10 at 6 p.m. at the church.

A $50 deposit is due by Dec. 8 for any lady who plans to attend the Women of Joy conference in Louisville on April 11-13. Contact Judy Jacobs or Mary Ann May for additional information.

Future events: Nov. 28-Thanksgiving; Dec. 1-Children's Christmas Program; Dec. 8-Hanging of the Greens; Dec. 12-Senior Christmas Dinner at Kentucky Depot; Dec. 25-Christmas; Jan. 1-New Year's Day.

Men indicted for breaking into police vehicle

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — A pair of Stanford men have been indicted on charges they broke into an undercover detective's vehicle, destroyed evidence and stole a firearm.

Gerald Burchfield Jr., 22, and Dustin Hensley, 18, both of 703 E. Main St. in Stanford, face charges of theft by unlawful taking, theft of a state police handgun, tampering with physical evidence and unlawful transactions with a minor.

Burchfield, Hensley and an unnamed minor allegedly broke into KSP Det. Brandon Curlis' unmarked police cruiser on or about Oct. 9 or 10, according to court case files.

According to arrest citations, Burchfield and Hensley have confessed to knowing the vehicle was an undercover police vehicle and that there was a firearm inside the vehicle. They also confessed to destroying a laptop and digital recorder "in an attempt not to get caught," according to the citations.

State police spokesman Trooper Robert Purdy said the investigation of the case is being handled by KSP's Drug Enforcement Special Investigations unit.

The men broke into the vehicle while it was parked at Curlis' home, Purdy said. The men were located "within a couple days" after the crime was committed.

Purdy said DESI will likely not release additional information about what cases may have been impacted by the destruction of evidence.

KSP Det. Brian Reeder testified against Burchfield and Hensley for the grand jury.

Burchfield and Hensley were being held without bond in the Lincoln County Regional Jail on Monday.

The November Lincoln County grand jury also indicted the following people:

- Tommy Haden Owens and Nina Owens, both of 422 Harmon Heights in Stanford, were indicted for third-degree burglary for allegedly unlawfully entering or remaining unlawfully in a building belonging to Tommy Owens with the intent to commit a crime.
- Stanford Police Det. Barry Allen testified for the grand jury.

HIGGINS

From A1

The woman was hospitalized for blood-loss and bruising. Her injuries were life-threatening, but she survived.

Higgins became a primary person of interest in the rape investigation after he was discovered the morning after the rape, sleeping inside another house on Star Avenue that had also been burglarized.

DNA evidence confirmed earlier this month that Higgins' DNA matches DNA taken from a rape kit performed on the victim, leading officials to formally charge Higgins for the rape.

Higgins has also been indicted this year for the other burglary on Star Avenue and for multiple charges surrounding a vehicle theft and police pursuit in March.

On March 20, Higgins allegedly stole a convertible from Stanford and led police on a chase across Lincoln County to the Moreland area, where he fled on foot when police cornered the vehicle. Hustonville Police Chief Fred McCoy said he had to Taser Higgins after he began scuffling with a deputy sheriff.

Higgins was arrested, but his case was not brought before a grand jury for indictment until the end of June. Under state law, prisoners must be released after 60 days if they have not been indicted.

Because he was not indicted within that 60-day span, Higgins was released from the Lincoln County Regional Jail in early June, less than two weeks before he allegedly committed the burglaries and rape.

Commonwealth's Attorney Eddy Montgomery has said he did not receive information on the pursuit case in time to present it to a grand jury before the end of June.

Higgins was being held in the Lincoln County Regional Jail without bond on Monday.

GARLANDS

From A1

Linda and her granddaughter had come to the church Tuesday to help out with one of Linda's favorite ministries — Operation Christmas Child, McKinney said.

Linda was also involved in the church's Angel Tree ministry and helped out every year with a winter coat drive for people in need, she added.

McKinney said the Garlands were "just ordinary people" who "worked hard all their lives, raised their family, knew their neighbors and just participated in community activities."

Linda Garland grew up in the Eubank area, learning to farm and love the land. Eventually, she would work at Paul's Discount store in Somerset, McKinney said.

Everett Garland's family comes largely from Indiana, but those Hoosier roots don't seem to have prevented Linda from falling for him. In fact, after meeting him, she got so "attached" that she wound up marrying him, said Sammie Adkins, a long-time pastor who officiated the couple's marriage in the late 1970s at Polly Ann Baptist Church — a small, steeped building less than a mile from the home where the couple died.

"That's the first couple I ever married," Adkins said. "I just know it's a sad situation."

Adkins said the two were well-known members of the Eubank community and he would see them around the area at various events even after he left Polly Ann Baptist and began pastoring elsewhere.

Adkins remained close with the Garlands over the years and said he always considered himself to be their pastor, no matter where they were going to church.

Adkins said Everett was a "faithful servant of the Lord" who was very close to his wife.

"I had the privilege of burying his daddy and his mother-in-law," he said. "They'll be missed a whole lot by people in the community. ... It's really a very sad thing."

Eubank resident John Ruckel said news of the Garlands' deaths caused shock as it spread through the community.

"When I heard the news is when my daddy stopped by the house and told me," Ruckel said. "I've known them since I was a baby. I was shocked to even hear it."

Ruckel said he knew Everett Garland as a hard worker who worked at a nearby plant until it closed and moved away. He said he can't imagine what the family must be going through.

"I just wish them the best, and my prayers are with them," he said. "It just blows my mind that someone would do this to these people."

Rusty Garland, the son of Linda and Everett, lives two houses down from where his parents lived. He said his parents were good people who were well-loved in the community.

"They never met a stranger. They'd give the shirts off their back for anybody, to help anybody," he said. "The community has lost two good people."

Funeral services for the Garlands were Sunday, Nov. 24, at Morris and Hislope Funeral Home in Science Hill, with Adkins and Bro. Shelby Reynolds officiating. Burial followed in Eubank Cemetery.

door of the house, where he had apparently been trying to escape the flames. Linda Garland was found in the couple's bedroom, Marcum said.

"She was found inside the bedroom, kneeling down beside the bed, covered up with a blanket, trying to protect herself," he said.

Marcum said he pronounced Everett Garland dead at the scene of the fire in the early Thursday morning hours.

Purdy said first responders were initially hopeful they could save Linda Garland.

"The female victim was taken out of the bedroom by a firefighter and they tried to revive her on the way to the hospital," he said.

Linda Garland was pronounced dead at Lake Cumberland Regional Medical Center by the Pulaski County coroner.

State Police Arson Investigator Pat Alford and a state fire marshal were on the scene Thursday morning investigating the cause of the fire. They did not comment on the record about their investigation.

Purdy said Alford's investigation of the scene was completed Thursday. The results of that investigation will be kept private and likely presented to a grand jury when the case is ready to move forward, he said.

The granddaughter had a

State police will also not be releasing information about possible motives the juvenile may have had for setting the fire. That information will similarly remain private and then be presented to a grand jury, Purdy said.

Autopsies performed Friday in Frankfort determined the cause of death for Linda and Everett Garland to be smoke inhalation, Purdy said.

Now, it's in the hands of the courts," he said.

detention hearing Thursday and is being held in a juvenile detention facility in Adair County for now, according to state police.

Purdy said while the juvenile is currently being charged as a minor, it's possible she could be charged as an adult because she is 16 years old. That decision will be up to the Commonwealth's Attorney in charge of the case, he said.

"Now, it's in the hands of the courts," he said.

and threatened to kill her, Snow claimed.

"He had a baseball bat and a shovel in the back. He said he was going to kill me," she told The Interior Journal on Sept. 27. "He continued to beat me in the face. I was pouring blood down my face and I had a big black eye — I couldn't see out of my eye at all."

"I was begging him for my life."

Snow said after a time, she and Abee got back in the vehicle and headed back toward Snow's home.

Snow took an opportunity when Abee put her behind the wheel and was out of the vehicle to drive off, she said.

People at the house where Snow had been sleeping reported the kidnapping to police, who issued a missing-person report.

Snow was found alone shortly after that report was filed, police have said.

The events allegedly occurred between Aug. 30 and Sept. 1, but Abee wasn't charged with kidnapping Snow until Sept. 10.

Police have said Snow was told to get treatment at a hospital and then file a criminal complaint following the alleged abduction because no law-enforcement officer witnessed any of what she alleges Abee did.

Because it was Labor Day weekend, Snow was unable to file a criminal complaint with County Attorney Daryl Day until Tuesday, Sept. 3, Lincoln County Chief Deputy Sheriff Dannie Gilliam said in September.

On Sept. 4, a family-court case was opened and a judge issued an emergency protective order against Abee.

Abee was also arrested that day on apparently unrelated charges of public intoxication, fleeing and evading police and resisting arrest, according to court documents.

Abee remained in jail on those charges, but it took until Sept. 10 for charges regarding the kidnapping to be brought against Abee. That delay was because sheriff's deputies were waiting for a warrant to be issued, Gilliam said.

"We didn't have a warrant to serve," he explained. "The county attorney still had it. That's pretty common, really."

Court records have revealed this isn't the first time Abee has been charged with kidnapping or unlawful imprisonment.

Abee was accused in 2008 and 2009 of committing similar crimes against two other women, both ex-girlfriends like Snow; those previous kidnapping and unlawful imprisonment charges against Abee were all eventually dismissed.

Abee was being held without bond in the Lincoln County Regional Jail Monday. He is scheduled to be arraigned on the kidnapping and burglary charges at 10 a.m. Dec. 17.

Two injured after SUV rolls

By Ben Kleppinger

KINGS MOUNTAIN — Two people were injured Thursday morning, Nov. 21, when an SUV ran off U.S. 27 and rolled three times, ejecting the driver.

Anne Compton, 68, and Treasa DeLong, 30, both of Somerset, were airlifted from the scene and taken to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center, Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said.

Folger said Compton was driving and DeLong was her passenger when Compton took off her seatbelt to assist DeLong with something. At that point, the southbound Oldsmobile SUV traveled onto the shoulder of the road and continued there for approximately 240 feet.

Compton attempted to correct the course of her vehicle but overcorrected and traveled into the opposite lane of traffic, Folger said. Compton tried to correct back the other way, with disastrous results.

"This time, the overcorrecting caused the vehicle to roll over onto its side, slide down the highway approximately 48 feet, going back into the right-hand shoulder area," Folger said. "At that point, the vehicle rolled three times."

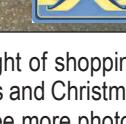

"Compton was ejected. She was located approximately 30 feet south of the vehicle," Folger continued. "She had some really bad injuries, but at this time I don't think there was anything life-threatening."

DeLong suffered head and neck injuries.

"EMS made the decision to fly, so I'm sure it was pretty severe," Folger said.

Waynesburg EMS, Stanford EMS and Lincoln County firefighters responded to the scene, along with Folger.

DeLong had to be freed from the vehicle with a Jaws of Life tool. A stretch of U.S. 27 near the intersection with Ky. 501 was shut down for approximately an hour while the scene was cleared; traffic was routed around the area via Ky. 1247.

Hustonville moves forward with water upgrade project

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

HUSTONVILLE — Moving forward with plans to modernize Hustonville's water system may require an additional rate hike on water customers beyond a 15-percent increase passed in July.

Mayor David Peyton told city-council members Nov. 19 that the July rate increase is accomplishing exactly what it was designed to do — the city's water department is no longer "hemorrhaging money."

But breaking even probably won't be good enough for state officials if the city wants to get access to state revolving funds for a $421,000 water-system-upgrade project, Peyton said.

"I think they'll require another 10-percent increase to get this funding. There's no way they're going to fund us when we're breaking even, showing no gain," he said.

Even if another increase is necessary, Hustonville will still have some of the lowest water rates in the state, Peyton said.

"Even if we were required to do another 12 percent, we're still going to be number one," he said. "We're still going to be the cheapest water that you can buy, period."

According to a water-price comparison chart provided by Peyton, Hustonville has cheaper per-gallon prices for in-city customers than nine other comparable cities: Burgin, Carlisle, Clay City, Crab Orchard, Eubank, Junction City, Millersburg, North Middletown and Perryville.

Hustonville also has cheaper prices for out-of-city customers than all nine of those cities until a customer uses 30,000 gallons or more in a month — then Hustonville is second to Carlisle, according to Peyton's charts.

Hustonville's minimum water bill inside the city limits is currently $11.50 monthly; its minimum water bill outside the city limits is $14.38 monthly.

If it's completed, the water-upgrade project would install 5,250 feet of new 6-inch water lines along a large number of streets in the city. The new lines would allow the city to stop using old 4-inch and cast-iron 3-inch lines that don't provide enough water pressure.

Officials have blamed Hustonville's underpowered pipes for an excessive number of fire hydrants in the city that don't provide enough water pressure to be used by a fire truck.

Previous water projects in Hustonville have gone wrong when contractors installed lines that weren't big enough for the capacity needed and when some homes were never switched over onto newly installed lines, Peyton said. As a result, the hodgepodge of water lines that Hustonville operates off provide poor pressure and require excessive flushing so the water quality continues to meet state standards, he explained.

Hustonville resident Josh Douglas told city council members he supports the water-upgrade project and likes seeing them taking action on things he thinks should have been done a long time ago.

"Get the job done. Them people want water," he said. "Stand up and face the music."

The council voted unanimously to move forward with an application for state funding for the project, but not before discussing how using the state funding — which comes in the form of a low-interest loan — could limit the city's ability to use water-department funds for non-water-department expenses.

With limited revenue available to the city, water-department funds have been used in the past to cover city bills such as insurance payments.

Councilman Matt Couch said he believes most in the Hustonville community are supportive of the move to upgrade the water system, but they don't want the city council to put the city "in a situation where it can't function."

"That's the biggest thing is just finding out how much of a retainer do we need or how lenient they would be on transferring funds to the city," he said.

City Attorney Jonathan Baker said he can't know the specific limitations that would be placed on transferring money from the water department while the loan is being paid back but said the city council would likely have the ability to transfer funds if necessary.

Accountant Craig Butler told city-council members Hustonville is unique among water providers because they have been operating without any debt at all. Most water providers have ongoing debt obligations for system upgrade projects, he said.

"You're probably the only utility I've dealt with in 25 years that has no debt," he said.

Peyton said he would like to borrow $400,000 from the state revolving fund for the project and pay $21,000 of the cost directly from city checking accounts.

Water tank upgrade in the works, too

City-council members are also planning to cash in one Hustonville Water Department's certificate of deposit savings accounts in order to pay for an upgrade to the Hustonville water tower.

The upgrade would resurface the tank and install a mixing system that would help maintain high water quality. Peyton said the cost of the project has been estimated at $100,000 but could potentially cost more.

Peyton's proposal, which city-council members seemed cautiously open to, is to cash out a $150,000 savings account to pay for the project.

The remaining funds could then be used as a buffer for city expenses while the water department is paying off its loan for the other upgrade project, Peyton explained.

The city would still have $300,000 left in other certificate of deposit savings accounts.

The Hustonville water tower would non-operational for about two weeks during the upgrade, during which time Hustonville customers would be fed off the Moreland water tower instead, Peyton said.

"I really do believe that using the $150,000 CD to pay for the water-tank project and sticking this remaining money back for the city while the water department is in debt is the right way to go on this," he said. "There have been too many years of putting money in the bank and not doing anything with this water company."

For now, Gipson is working limited hours, generally on weekends. But those hours are subject to change so criminals can't take advantage of knowing Gipson's and Jesse Harris' schedules, Donna Harris said.

"As time goes on, we're going to change it around so the criminals don't know when he's working," she said.

Gipson, who worked for the Danville Police Department before his time on the force in Junction City, said so far, things have been pretty quiet for him in Crab Orchard — and that's a good thing for the citizens.

Gipson said some people still don't know that Crab Orchard has a police chief back on the streets, but that's changing as more and more people see his cruiser around town.

"There's a lot of good comments about having police around now," he said.

The police department currently consists of Gipson, his equipment and one police cruiser. But Gipson said he's hopeful he can work with the city on applying for grants or finding other ways to increase the police department budget and expand its role in protecting Crab Orchard.

"I don't know if we'll ever get another officer, but I think a lot of times, they could probably use one when I'm not working," he said.

Crab Orchard last had an operational police department more than three and a half years ago. According to news archives, the city laid off police officer Butch Phillips in January 2010.

At the time, Phillips was costing the city approximately $72,000 annually including salary and benefits, according to the archives.

Sheriff's deputies and Jesse Harris have provided the only law-enforcement coverage for the city since. Harris has estimated he works 40 or more hours every week, patrolling mostly in the Crab Orchard and Broughtontown communities.

Donna Harris said city officials are "very excited" to have an officer back on the clock, especially one with as much experience as Gipson has.

"We're just glad to have him," she said. "We're so glad that we're able to get this going again."

2013-14 Lincoln County High School Lady Patriot Basketball Team

Girls Preview: It's not about rebuilding for Lady Patriots – it's about reloading

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — Last season, the Lincoln County girls basketball team made history.

The Lady Patriots powered their way to a 27-6 record, racked up a sixth-straight district championship and earned the program its first ever back-to-back appearances in the state tournament.

But after graduating four starters and the fifth starter deciding to sit out her senior season, Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter has had to contend with rebuilding one of the most dominant teams in the 12th Region in recent years.

Correction. The fourth-year Lady Patriot mentor says it's been a preseason of reloading, not rebuilding.

"Our fans will be pleasantly surprised with the talent that we still have," McWhorter said. "Anytime you graduate five seniors and four of those five have been starters for the last two seasons, you lose a lot of experience. On the backside of that, I think I have a lot of experience returning."

'Our fans will be pleasantly surprised with the talent that we still have.'

Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter

"The girls I have playing varsity this year have played a lot of basketball, and they have played a lot together, but they just lack that varsity time experience you want going into a new year."

Five of the six returning varsity playing time last year and have played in one or both of the Lady Patriots' recent state tourney appearances.

"Spencer Sims, Tiandra Hocker and Kelsi Honaker all received quality minutes last season," McWhorter said. "And the Hall twins (Caitlin and Cristin), I would have liked to have gotten them in more last season, but when you are as deep as we are you can't get everybody the minutes you'd like. But the best thing is that those five have been going against the group we lost in practice every day for the past two seasons. They are used to going against top players just not always getting varsity time."

And McWhorter says it's that practice time with veteran starters and limited game experience that has provided the team its biggest strength going into the new season.

"Our strength is that we have a group of hungry girls — girls that have had to sit behind that senior class that know they are talented and know they maybe haven't gotten the minutes they would've liked. Those girls are eager to prove to people that 'we are talented, and we're going to continue that success,'" she said.

"They are a very close-knit group. They don't care who gets the credit, they just want to win. They want to see everyone on their team succeed and that goes a long way on a basketball team."

Sims, Hocker, Honaker and the Halls will no longer

Many of us spend Thanksgiving weekend decorating for the Christmas Season. Inter-County Energy would like to remind you of a few tips to keep you and your family safe while hanging those holiday lights.

- Inspect all the lights you plan on using. Make sure the wires are in good condition—not cracked, brittle, or frayed. The sockets should not be damaged, and no light bulbs should be missing.
- All lights should be certified by Underwriters Laboratory, ETL or CSA.
- Never tack or nail through a strand of lights. Do not place cords under rugs or in high traffic areas.
- Never string more than three strands of lights together unless the packaging says it is safe to do so. The lights could overload and start a fire.
- Turn off the lights before going to sleep or leaving the house. A timer can help you do this.
- For outdoor decorations, use only lights and decorations that are rated for outdoor use.

2013-14 Lincoln County High School Patriot Basketball Team

Boys Preview: Strong corps of players makes Patriots' outlook bright

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — Lincoln County boys' basketball coach Jeff Jackson's teams have won 176 games in his 10 seasons here, and he is looking for his Patriots to add a lot more victories this season.

There may be only one senior on the roster, but Lincoln is bringing a strong corps of players to the hardwood for the 2013-14 season, including four returning starters in a loaded junior class, who could help make the wins happen.

"We have some good kids coming back and we're excited," Jackson said. "We've got Kody (Cornelius, senior) back. We've got a great group of juniors that have been together for a long time. We've also got some good kids in our sophomore class, and our freshman class is really, really good."

Leading the veterans are returning starters Jacob Conway, a 6-3 junior guard who averaged 16 points and 8 rebounds last season, Timmy Taylor, a 5-9 junior guard who averaged 9 points and 8.4 assists, 6-2 junior guard BJ Hoover and 6-1 junior forward Brandon Pittman.

But the junior class talent doesn't stop there. Neil Conley, a 5-10 guard, saw plenty of action last year as one of the team's top reserves, as did Andrew Wilks, a 6-1 center. Dalton Godbey, a 5-8 guard and Logan Sears, a 5-10 forward, also saw action last season and return to round out the junior class.

"The junior class is really special. And they're pretty good, too," Jackson said. "They are a very unselfish group of kids. They share the ball well. They look for each other. They play well together."

"With Timmy at the point, he distributes the ball really well. You've got three kids in Jake (Conway), Neil and BJ that can flat out shoot it. Brandon can step out and hit the 3, Andrew can step out and hit the 3 and Dalton can shoot the ball. And Logan has improved."

Cornelius did not start as a junior last season with a knee injury sidelining him. The 6-2 center had knee surgery to repair an injury and was out for the season. But Kody's back now, and Jackson says he's ready to go.

"We're happy to see Kody back. We missed him last year," he said. "He's worked hard all year on his rehab and it's good for him to be back out there and involved as a player. I thought he did a good job the other night in the scrimmage (Montgomery County)."

Rounding out Lincoln's roll of returning players are sophomores Preston Ledford, Wade Goode and Jake Middleton. Ledford is a 6-0 forward and Goode and Middleton are both 5-9 guards.

"Our sophomore class is good, too," Jackson said. "Preston and Wade and Jake have all worked hard and improved. Preston had a pretty good summer and is a good size kid and he's got a chance to become a good player down the road."

One of Jackson's newest varsity players, while not a senior, junior or sophomore, has found a fit with the "older" players.

"Noah Young, a freshman, has fit in really, really well with those kids," Jackson

LCMS boys basketball: Eagles go 2-1 against Boyle; sweep Mercer

By Nancy Leedy

Boyle County Middle proved too much for Lincoln County in the first game at LCMS last Monday, but it was Lincoln coming out on top in the final two games. And it was Lincoln all the way Thursday in a sweep at Mercer County Middle.

Boyle cruised 67-31 in the sixth-grade game. Lincoln rolled 45-25 in the seventh-grade game and the Eagles' eighth-graders eked out a 38-37 overtime victory. At Mercer, Lincoln won 34-17, 42-31 and 47-40 for the sweep.

The Salt River Conference games with Boyle and Mercer put Lincoln at 13-4 in the conference standings. The 3-2 sixth-graders are now 2-1 in the conference and the seventh- and eighth-grade teams, both 5-1 overall, are undefeated in the SRC at 3-0.

Results from the games follow:

Boyle 67

Lincoln 31

Boyle County Middle used a strong first-half effort to set itself up for an easy 67-31 win in sixth-grade action at Lincoln.

The Boyle Eagles outscored the Lincoln Eagles 34-16 in the first two periods of play, jumping ahead 19-10 in the first and pouring in an additional 15 points in the second quarter for the 18-point cushion.

Boyle went on to post a 52-21 lead at the end of the third quarter and closed with an 15-10 scoring edge for the 67-31 final.

Lincoln did not get a single player in double digits in the loss. Damion Givens-Ford led the team with nine points, Elijah Frye scored six points, Zane Rousey and Jason Denny had four points apiece and Trey Cummins, Jordan Brown, Bryston Alcorn and Jose Hernandez each had two points.

Boyle had three double-digit scorers in the win, with Yates the night's high scorer with 21 points, Smith finishing with 17 and Kelly with 13.

Rousey led Lincoln in rebounding with four boards and Cummins led in assists with three.

Lincoln 45

Boyle 25

The Lincoln County seventh-grade Eagles did to Boyle County what the visitors did to Lincoln in the sixth-grade game, taking control early en route to a lopsided win.

Lincoln established itself as the dominant team in the first quarter of play, exploding out to a 20-4 lead as the Eagles set course for a 45-25 rout.

A 13-5 second-quarter scoring edge boosted Lincoln's lead to 33-9 at the break and the Eagles never looked back.

Lincoln added another 10 points in the third quarter to extend the margin to 43-16. Boyle, which was held to single digits every period, had its high-point effort in the fourth quarter, outscoring Lincoln 9-2.

Blake Smith sparked Lincoln in the Boyle win knocking down 15 points and grabbing six rebounds. Bryson Yaden also hit double figures with 10 points. Yaden also had a team-high five assists and two steals.

Cameron Britton contributed seven points, Louis Rice and Carter Story each had three points, Daly Pope, Chance McQueary and Preston Carter all had two points and Trey Smith added a free throw toss.

Boyle was led in scoring by Duffy with six points and Henry and Hatter both had four points.

Kelley Bastin and Cameron Britton had two steals each for Lincoln and Chance McQueary had two blocked shots.

Boyle 37

Lincoln County doubled Boyle County's scoring in the first quarter of the eighth-grade game, and the homestanding Eagles would need every single point to hold off Boyle and edge out a 38-37 overtime win.

Lincoln broke out to a 14-7 lead in the first quarter, however Boyle spent the remainder of the game narrowing the gap to even the game at 35-all at the end of regulation.

Boyle began its rally effort in the second quarter, edging out Lincoln 9-7 to make it 21-16 at the half. The visiting Eagles whittled further into the lead in the third, using a 10-8 scoring edge to make it 29-26, then set up the overtime with a 9-6 fourth-quarter scoring effort which tied the game.

There weren't many points scored in the overtime period, but Lincoln held the advantage, 3-2, to earn the win.

Chase Phillips double-doubled for Lincoln in the win, leading the team in scoring with 11 points and in rebounding with 13 boards. He also had seven steals and three assists.

Nick Noland added nine points and got two blocked shots, Trey Miller followed with eight points, Tristen Helton scored four points and Garrett Clem, Dalton Sebastian and Bryson Yaden had two points apiece.

Boyle's top scorers were Bramel with 12 points, Alexander with 10 and Southerland with nine.

Damion Givens-Ford's point total for Lincoln combined with either Elijah Frye or Zane Rousey amounted to more points than the entire Mercer County Middle School team as they led the Eagles over their hosts 34-17 at Harrodsburg.

Givens-Ford had a game-high 10 points to pace the Lincoln sixth-graders and Frye and Rousey both chipped in with six points.

Lincoln edged ahead of Mercer 8-6 in the first quarter and used a 12-5 second-quarter to boost its lead to 20-11 at the half.

Mercer cut slightly into Lincoln's lead in the third quarter by outpointing the Eagles 6-2, but Lincoln put the game away in the final period, shutting out Mercer 12-0.

Drakeford led Mercer's scoring with eight points, Cheeke had four points and Booth had three.

Jason Denny scored four points for Lincoln, Trey Cummins had two points and two assists and Austin Blevins, Darren Griffin and Bryston Alcorn had two points apiece.

Givens-Ford also had four steals and two blocked shots for Lincoln in the win. Rousey and Jordan Brown led the team in rebounding with eight boards each. Frye had two assists.

Lincoln County followed up the night's opening win with a victory in the seventh-grade contest, as the Eagles ruled over Mercer County 42-31.

The game was deadlocked at 11-11 after the first quarter, but Lincoln moved on top in the second, outscoring Mercer 8-2 to take a 19-13 lead at the half.

Lincoln bumped its lead up to 28-18 in the third quarter and came out on top 14-13 in the final frame to secure the double-digit win.

be biding their time behind starters with each pegged by McWhorter to fill a starting spot. Sims, Hocker and Honaker are juniors and the Halls are sophomores.

Caitlin Adams, also a junior, rounds out the list of returning varsity players.

McWhorter will not have to concern herself with graduation this year, with no seniors on the roster.

"We are young. I have four juniors, four sophomores and then you drop to your freshman class and below," she said. "With no seniors and four juniors, age-wise we are young, but experience-wise I think we'll be okay once we get going and can make some adjustments early in the year."

The current Lady Patriot roster includes just high school players, with sophomores Aliyah Hocker and Jaylynn Lester and freshmen Logan Godbey, Allie Harness, Jenna King, Sydney Sloane, Abby Sparkman and Jacque Upchurch rounding out the team.

That roster is subject to change as the season progresses, however, with some middle schoolers showing the potential to be bumped up.

"We have a lot of younger girls that have come over from the middle school who are working really hard and who are talented. My job as head coach is to find that talent and put that talent on the floor," McWhorter said.

With the new season just days away, McWhorter feels her team still has plenty of room for improvement.

"When you look at us, you will see that one of our weaknesses early is a lack of size," she said. "With Sydney (Harris, 6-0) and Kourtney (Belcher, 5-9) being gone we've lost a lot of height and the depth in our post play is not as deep."

"Of course, you're always striving to see improvement defensively, always striving to get better every day, just knocking shots down consistently. Those are weaknesses teams want to improve on all the time."

McWhorter got a chance to see her Lady Patriots in action in a recent scrimmage with 12th Region foe Southwestern and she liked what she saw.

"I was very pleasantly pleased with our effort. I know I have a group of girls that are going to work hard. They are going to step out on the floor and give it everything they've got," she said. "We shot the ball well, and when you shoot the ball well that seems to hide some of those weaknesses you need to work on."

"My question for this team right now is, 'How will we respond when the ball doesn't go in the hole, especially early on in the game? Will we be able to keep that intensity, energy level high and still play with the passion we had in the first scrimmage?' I wonder how we will respond when our backs are against the wall."

nine rebounds and got six steals to lead the Lincoln eighth graders over host Mercer County Middle 47-40.

Lincoln had trouble shaking Mercer in the Salt River Conference game. The Eagles showed a 12-6 advantage over Mercer after the first quarter and were up 24-16 at the break. But Mercer came out the third quarter and outscored Lincoln 15-12 to trim the margin to 36-31.

The Eagles would preserve the win in the final period, outpointing Mercer 11-9 to earn the seven-point win.

Trey Miller added nine points for Lincoln, Garrett Clem got seven points, Nick Noland finished with six points and Bryson Yaden and Blake Smith had three points each.

Miller and Tristen Helton each had three assists.

Merger's top scorers were Gillespie with 16 points, Baughman with seven and Releford with six.

DH - Doubleheaders

It's just five days before the Lady Patriots tip off on the season, with Lincoln hosting Pulaski County Monday night.

And is Lincoln ready?

"We better be ready because it's here - ready or not," McWhorter said. "They're anxious to get started. You get about this time of the year after they've been conditioning and practice is fully started, and they are tired of beating up on each other. They are ready to go against another opponent and get into playing games weekly."

And could another championship season follow?

"I still have high expectations for us," said McWhorter. "We've been successful and you want to continue that success. I don't want them to think this is a rebuilding year, I want them to just continue to go on with what we've been doing. I'm not going to accept less than the expectations I've put out in the years prior."

We have quality leaders, we have a lot of talent on this team, and I'm going to push them every day to get their best out of them."

said. "They trust him. He distributes the ball well and just plays. He played quite a bit of varsity the other night (Montgomery County scrimmage) and he did a really good job."

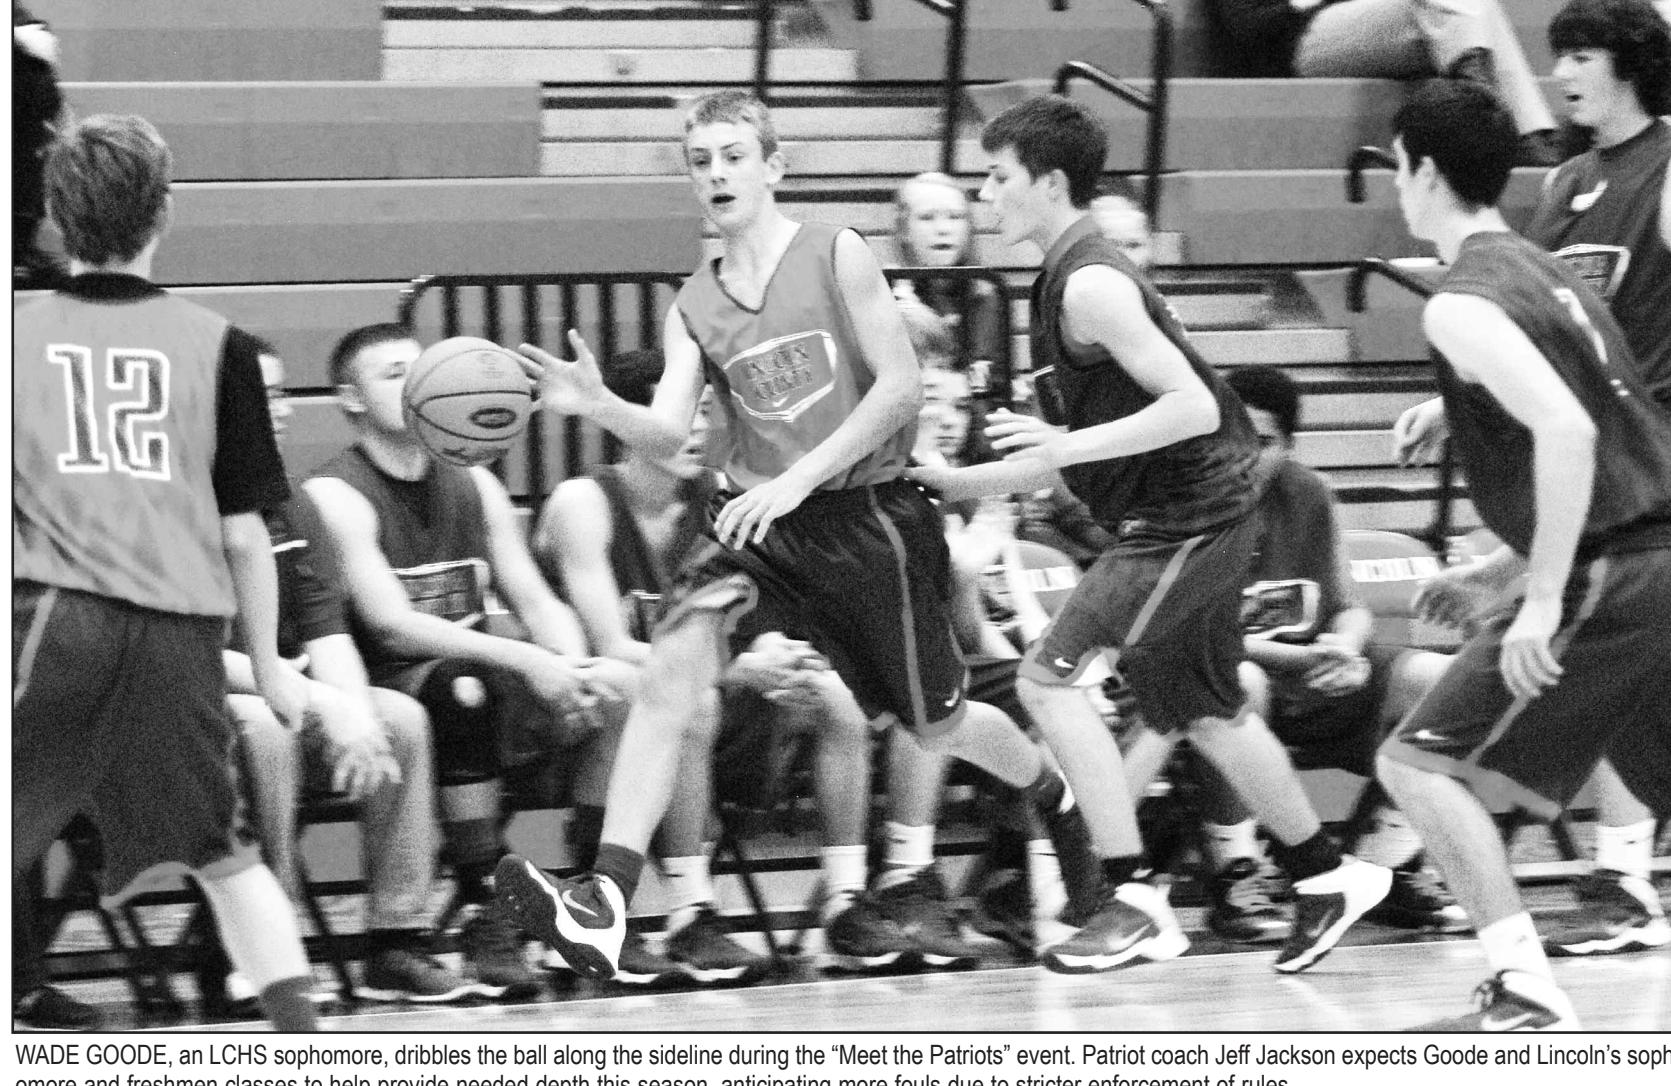

However, Young, a 5-7 guard, isn't the only freshman drawing praise from the Lincoln mentor.

"There are some really, really good players in that class," said Jackson. "Noah plays well, and then we have Devin Alcorn and Tanner McAninch who can both play. We just got Carlos (Nunez) up from football. And Noah Horton can shoot the ball. A good mixture those kids can do."

The 5-8 Alcorn, 5-7 McAninch and 5-6 Horton are all guards. Nunez is a 5-9 forward.

Jackson may require the talent of every one of his players, senior to freshman, at times this season with the stricter enforcement of rules.

"With the new rules officiating-wise, we're going to have to have a lot of depth on the bench," Jackson said. "They are going to blow the whistle a lot on fouls, touch fouls. You are going to have to have depth and be a really, really good free-throw shooting team because, more than likely, both teams are going to shoot a lot of free throws."

"I feel comfortable playing 9-10 kids, 11 if we have to. Some of them aren't physically ready yet, but they have the skills and we'll put them out there if we need to," he said.

Jackson, who has just a matter of days to try and get Lincoln's focus and effort in check for the season tipoff on Dec 3, got a good look at his team in a scrimmage against Montgomery County Friday night. The Patriots more than held their own against the Indians, who are ranked in the top 15 in the Courier-Journal preseason poll, with Lincoln winning 5 of the 6 varsity quarters played.

And Jackson said the look affirmed to him that Lincoln can play the style of game he wants to play this season – up-tempo.

"We want to play up-tempo, probably faster than any team I've had since I've been here. To do that, you have to do a good job on the defensive end and you have to gang rebound. I thought we did that over the summer and I thought we did a really, really good job against them," Jackson said.

"We put a body on someone when the ball was in the air. They were bigger and more athletic overall than we were, but I thought our kids were physical under the basket and did a good job blocking out. We held our own on the glass and I thought we were aggressive on defense. Our traps were good when we did trap and we dove on the floor and tried to take some charges. That allowed us to get some things going in transition from defense to offense."

But Jackson wasn't completely won over by the Patriot effort in the scrimmage.

"I didn't think we shot the ball particularly well the other night," he said. "There were two or three games this summer where we had 17 3's, and most games this summer we had 8, 10, 12 3's a game. I didn't think we shot the ball exceptionally well (scrimmage), but we moved the ball well. We pushed the ball in transition. We shot a lot of layups. We attacked the basket well."

While Jackson admits that the team still needs to work on things, he said he and the team are ready to get the season started.

"They have been excited since the first day of June.

They are chomping at the bit to get started," Jackson said.

"As each day went by during the summer, I think they saw that we can have a good team, and it's still carried over. As long as we can get everyone to buy-in, to understand their roles and be ready to play when name is called, we have a chance to be a pretty dog-gone good basketball team."

"I think they are going to be a fun team to watch," he added. "If people come out to watch them play once, they'll come back to see them again."

Fall is important time for lawn care

With summer over, many take a vacation from lawn care. But fall is an important time to control weeds, remove leaves, and trim and fertilize grass. Fall is the number one time of the year to control broadleaf weeds like dandelion, plantain, chickweed, henbit and clover. It's easier to control broadleaf weeds when they are actively growing in the fall. Also, this time of year we have fewer sensitive plants in the yard that might be injured by drift or herbicide volatility and winds usually are calmer, reducing the chance of drift drainage. Don't depend on frost to control weeds; it stunts or kills the tops but won't kill the crowns and roots. An advantage of fall broadleaf weed control is that grasses are actively growing and will fill in spaces the weeds occupied. Pick a 50 degree temperature day and apply a lawn herbicide.

It's very important to keep leaves off the lawn because they shade grass and this prevents growth of new tillers that make new grass plants. While you can chop up leaves with a mower, it's best to remove them, because accumulation of chopped leaves on the grass crown hurts new plant and stem development that would thicken up the yard grass.

November is an important time to properly mow the lawn. The calendar or frost or even a freeze has no effect on when to stop mowing grass. Keep mowing as long as the grass is growing. Shorter grass maintains its greenness. Mow shorter in the fall than in the summer. Grass should be no more than two inches tall going into the winter. Grass that is too tall tends to flop over and smother itself out. This can cause losses up to half the grass density. Mowing grass shorter in the fall produces a more lush lawn next spring. Short grass allows more light penetration and this produces new plants that thicken up the lawn. It also produces growth and green up several weeks earlier in the spring. I see a lot of yards around that definitely need to be mowed now. Put on your jacket and go ahead and mow the grass down to two inches. Your yard will look better and be healthier.

Fall fertilization of lawns helps produce a more lush lawn next spring also and it will help produce new plants to thicken up the lawn and fill in the bare spots. Applying a high nitrogen fertilizer in the fall promotes root growth that increases lawn density without excessive top growth. Conversely, fertilizing in the spring decreases root growth while increasing top growth. This makes a lawn more susceptible to drought stress and means it has to be mowed more often. Spring fertilization also encourages diseases and growth of crabgrass and summer annual weeds. Fall lawn fertilization is always best. You will be a lot happier with your lawn if you begin this year to only fertilize in the fall.

In the fall, apply fertilizer at the rate of one to two pounds of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet. The percent nitrogen is the first number in the analysis on the fertilizer bag. To get one pound per 1,000 square feet, use three pounds of 33 percent nitrogen ammonium nitrate.

Another choice is to use a 10-10-10 fertilizer, applying 10 pounds per 1000 square feet. This works good because you also keep the phosphate and potash levels high. Make two applications, one in mid-November and the other at the end of December. You can get by with one application, but if you do that wait until the 1st week of December and use six lbs. of Ammonia nitrate or 20 lbs. Of 10-10-10 per square feet. We have free publications on lawn weed control, fertilization and other lawn management practices. We also have a variety of other bulletins available on trees, shrubs and home horticulture. All of these are yours just for the asking.

Ms. Kathy and Ms. Sandy's preschool classroom at Hustonville Elementary School enjoyed a unit of study on the First Thanksgiving, using all learning styles. Classmates are shown aboard the Mayflower.

Hustonville preschool learns about the First Thanksgiving

Because children do not all learn in the same way, teachers take all styles of learning into account. Lincoln County preschool teachers present information so that all children-listeners, lookers, and movers – can be successful learners. Brain research shows that the more ways children explore a concept, the more likely they are to remember what they learn. Learning is maximized by offering learning opportunities for children of all learning styles.

In Ms. Kathy and Ms. Sandy's preschool classroom at Hustonville, the children are enjoying a unit of study on the First Thanksgiving, using all learning styles.

For the classroom art center, the children have made their own paint brushes from sticks and pine needles and used the brushes to create Native American art. In the manipulative center, the children are encouraged to use beads and their ability to create patterns to create their own decorative jewelry. In the writing center, each child had had his/her name transcribed into Cherokee symbols. The discovery center is growing corn, and the dramatic play center has costumes appropriate to play in the child-size teepee or Mayflower.

Reasoning and analysis skills are being developed through charts and comparisons as the children contrast the life style of the early settlers to present day with an item such as a corn husk doll being compared to a present-day doll. Through a variety of rich literature the children are learning of the lives of the early pilgrims and how their survival depended on the help of local tribes. Parents have been invited to be a part of the unit by helping their children create rock art. They are also encouraged to come visit the classroom to see firsthand the experiences the children are enjoying in their classroom. Maybe they would enjoy taking the role of the captain of the Mayflower or cu-lding up with their child in the reading center to read a favorite book. Visiting your child's classroom gives valuable insight and shows support of the child's learning.

Lions Club holds food, coat drive

By Carol Parker

On Saturday, Nov. 16, the Stanford Lions Club held a coat, blanket and food drive.

Collection bins were set up in front of Durham's Grocery for coats and blankets. The community responded, pretty soon one bin was full. The van filled up with food. The Lions donated $500 in food, also. To all who donated warm items or food, you are so appreciated. There are those of you who placed cash in the collection basket, thank you! The cash was used to buy food. Over all, this amounted to over $1,800 in food. What a giving spirit this community has!

The food was divided between Fort Logan Ministries and God's Food Pantry of Grace Fellowship Church where it will be distributed.

A big, big, thank you to Durham's Grocery for helping make this drive so successful. Thanks to all of you

Two simple words that mean so much...

The last few years have been difficult for many financial institutions. At Farmers National Bank, we've stayed the course by continuing to do what we've done best for over 130 years - work hard in the communities we serve by supporting our schools, Heart of Kentucky United Way and countless other agencies and charities. Last year, over 261 charitable organizations received donations of time and money from Farmers National Bank and its 170 employees. And, most importantly, we continue to focus on you, our customer. You're the reason we come to work every day.

Thank You for your continued support which has enabled Farmers National Bank to generate strong growth in 2013. This growth included the expansion of our Wealth Management Unit (WealthSouth) from Danville to Bowling Green and Lexington.

Thank You for your support and confidence as we continue to grow Farmers National Bank.

To all our customers and all the people living in the communities we serve, it is my sincere hope that you have a wonderful holiday season and a prosperous 2014.
